

I am against allowing phone companies to decide who can use their lines and how much to charge without the oversight of the government. This will hurt the independant ISPs in the long run and drive the prices up for consumers.